Care Planning: Individualize Care Planning For Best Outcomes

Know resident's preferences to help minimize distress.

You have a better chance of your patient cooperating with your care plan if it is in line with her/his needs and preferences, specific health status, and habitual routine.

Here are examples of care plan considerations for each MDS section, from a series of web presentations by Shirley Boltz, RN, RAI/Education Coordinator for the Kansas Department for Aging and Disability Services (KDADS)
